IN FOR A LONG JOB.

No more striking commentary on conditions in Mexico can be afforded than the rumors of various minor revolts against Carranza. Whether the Herrera story is true or is not true, it might very well be true, for Carranza, in spite of the fact that he is the "recognized" head of the Mexican government, has little control over five of the twelve millions of Mexican people.

Several states are independent, others have never been under his authority. His army is undisciplined and his associates untrustworthy.

Villa may be killed or captured and his band scattered. That will cause the United States to withdraw from Mexico, after which some other bandit chieftain will arise and if he grows strong enough, will "invade" the United States. Uncle Sam's policy has been taken by the ignorant Mexicans for weakness and cowardice, and Uncle Sam will be a long time in eradicating that impression.

A WARDEN'S TEMPERANCE ARGUMENT.

(From the Minneapolis Journal)

Great movements and large affairs are often mightily affected by the incidents of chance. The publication of a novel did much to free the American slave. After Napoleon had forbidden the playing of the "Marseillaise" and the tide of battle was running against the armies of France, the beating of the charge by a drummer boy won the battle of Marengo. The foolish speech of a well-meaning clergyman was one of the important factors that compassed the defeat of Blaine for the presidency, and the letter of an English diplomat lost thousands of votes for Cleveland in his second campaign.

An incident of this kind has just happened in Washington. The warden of the North Dakota penitentiary, testifying before a Senate subcommittee on the output of twine from the institution, did more for the cause of temperance than forty revivals. The warden said that, since North Dakota fell into the line of dry states, the number of men sentenced to long terms had fallen off to such an extent as seriously to interfere with the making of twine. They have facilities at the penitentiary for manufacturing fifteen thousand units of binding twine and could sell such an output, but they have long-term convicts enough to turn out only three thousand units.

Men maddened by liquor commit the crimes that blight their lives, disgrace their families and earn for them long terms or life homes in the places where a man becomes only a number. So the warden of Bismarck penitentiary becomes a powerful, though perhaps unintentional, pleader for the cause of temperance. The economics of prohibition were never better or more bluntly expounded. The North Dakota penitentiary may well be bankrupt of its income from twine, if the state can become bankrupt of crime.

ANOTHER "GERMAN ATROCITY"

Mr. Alexander Powell, the war correspondent, is not a sympathizer of the Germans. Most of his correspondence has been written on the Belgian and French side of the battle front. Consequently, it cannot be said that the following incident he relates is colored favorably for the Teuton cause:

"The famous French aviator, Pegoud, was killed during a reconnaissance in Alsace. The next day a German aeroplane, flying at a great height, appeared over Chavannes, an Alsatian village on the old frontier where Pegoud was buried, and dropped a wreath which bore the inscription, 'to Pegoud, who died like a hero, from his adversary.'"

Of this anecdote an American editor says: "It is worth more to the German cause than twenty books."

THE GREAT NORTHERN WITHDRAWAL.

Though the Hill line officials have decided to withdraw the Great Northern until next November, they cannot but be impressed with the desire of Honolulu to see this fine steamer permanently on the Coast-Hawaii run. The substantial bonus offered the company proves that the merchants of the city appreciate what Great Northern service and Great Northern publicity mean to island trade.

can't be helped now. Perhaps by fall the territory will have more fully realized what the Hill service was doing for scores of businesses in Hawaii, and will not expect Traffic Manager Stone to carry his hat in his hand when looking over the possibilities for freight. The remark has been made that Mr. Stone should have done more kowtowing to local business interests. What he did do was to put the steamer on the run and inaugurate the greatest publicity campaign the islands have ever known. The benefits of the record-breaking passenger service and the advertising campaign were scarcely realized in Hawaii when the Hill officials decided that business didn't warrant keeping the steamer on the run.

Next fall, however, should see a big increase in tourist traffic. The announcement early in the week that the Territorial Hotel Company will triple the Moana accommodations, and the company's further prospects for beach hotel development, show not only the faith local businessmen have in the future of the tourist trade, but the reliance they place upon the Great Northern as a large factor in making the future prosperous.

A PATRIOTIC EXAMPLE.

(From the Chicago Tribune)

No corporation may openly prevent an employee from enlisting in the national guard, but there are many ways of discouraging enlistment. The legal protection given a guardsman is little safety where the employer is hostile or indifferent. Open encouragement by employers is the only way to enlarge the national guard.

The United States Rubber Company, through its board of directors, has given its approval to employees who join the militia. It has promised that their salaries and positions will not be jeopardized by zealous attendance to military duties. This is the stand which all employers should take. Negative measures will not help matters.

Although the national guard does not solve the problem of adequate national defense, it is the best we have, and until some real substitute is offered by Congress the United States should do what it can to make the guard strong and efficient. It is practically our first line of defense. The regular army is too small to serve that purpose. We hope that other corporations will follow the patriotic example of the United States Rubber Company.

There is a fine manifestation of generous and patriotic impulses in ex-Secretary of War Garrison's return to Washington and offer to his successor of the advantages of a closer acquaintance with the affairs of the department at this particular time. The acceptance of the offer in the same spirit in which it was made completes an episode that will impress the country most agreeably. If it must be said that Mr. Garrison's hasty resignation revealed him as the victim of an overimpulsive temperament it must also be said that this act strips the fault in him of all but its most likable qualities.—New York World.

Another cruel blow has been dealt Gus Gardner. The house rejected all his amendments to the army bill, although even Congressman Gardner admits that he is one of the few real army experts in the country.

The logical result of the military censorship clapped on Mexican news by the United States officers is the plentiful crop of rumors, most of them false, which have sprung up in the vicinity of the border.

Great Britain has condemned two German ships as prizes of war after holding them for a year and a half. It didn't take that long to dispose of American ships that were seized.

Army aviation chief fell down three flights of stairs and was only bruised, which shows that after all there's something in this preparedness.

Here's a horrible thought for the evening dinner-table: This war south of the border is going to produce a brand new crop of Mexican generals.

President Wilson has consulted an oculist. He might also try a horoscopes.

Personal Mention

W. O. SMITH and Mrs. Smith yesterday celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their marriage.

F. E. McALL, a teacher in the Kaula high and grammar school, is very ill in the Lihue hospital with typhoid fever.

JONAH KUHIO KALANIANAOLE, delegate to Congress, will be 45 years of age on March 26. He was born in Koloa, Kauai, in 1871.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT W. SHINGLE are booked to return to Honolulu on the Matsonia from San Francisco Tuesday morning.

JAMES A. WILDER, special commissioner of Boy Scouts, who has been enjoying an outing on Molokai will return to Honolulu in the steamer Mikahala next Sunday.

FORMER GOVERNOR DAVID L. WALSH of Massachusetts sailed for Japan and China in the China Mail liner China at 2 o'clock this morning. Before leaving, he said he is now a confirmed booster for Hawaii. He will return in May.

HENRY ST. GOAR, the San Francisco bond and sugar broker, is sailing on the Matson steamer Manoa for Kaula this afternoon, to make an inspection of the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company's holdings and plant on Maui.

GOVERNOR PINKHAM expects to leave for Kaula some time during the first 10 days of April to attend to the settlement of the Kapaa homesteaders' railroad trouble. Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works, and Bertram G. Rivenburgh will go with him.

GEORGE B. HOLMES, graduate of Kamehameha, born and raised in the islands, stopped off to see some of his friends yesterday while the China was in port. He is on his way to Vladivostok to erect a cannery for a New Jersey manufacturer. He will stay in the Siberian city for two years.

MISS NINA FORSYTHE, formerly a teacher in the Kamehameha schools, now a member of the faculty of the Santa Barbara, Cal., normal school, has been made a member of the Society of Arts and Crafts of Boston in recognition of her work in designing and weaving of textiles. This is the highest honor that can be awarded an American craftsman.

DR. M. C. HARRIS, missionary bishop of the Methodist Church in Korea, will leave Yokohama tomorrow on the Shinyo Maru. He will go to San Francisco, where he will take a short vacation before returning to Korea. Dr. Harris is well-known in Honolulu, having stopped here on his way to the Orient on a number of occasions.

F. A. GORMAN, of the grocery department of Theo. H. Davies & Co., arrived at Koloa Wednesday morning where, it is understood, he will remain as manager of the Kaula Trading Company. Mr. Gorman is well known on this island, having visited Kaula regularly for about 10 years. He is quite popular and will without doubt make a success of the business at Koloa.—Garden Island.

THINKS TUCKER MADE THE 'GOAT'

The expected has happened. Former Land Commissioner Tucker has been made "the goat" for all of the delay in getting that Waipouli railroad through and for the failure of other plans of the homesteaders in that region. What we don't understand, though, is why he was not brought up to the mark at some time during the several years he is charged with having loafed on the job. Has there not been dilatoriness on the part of others just there?—Garden Island.

DR. TAYLOR WILL BE SPEAKER AT Y. W. C. A. ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

At the 50-year jubilee vespers service of the Honolulu Young Women's Christian Association, to be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the association building, Hotel and Alakea streets, Dr. James Monroe Taylor, president emeritus of Vassar College, will be the speaker.

Although invitations have been sent out only to women members, men are invited as well and the general public interested in the things Dr. Taylor will have to say is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

CHINESE CLIENT WILL OBJECT TO JURY DRAWINGS

Attorney Breckons Contends No United States Court in Session Here

Acting on behalf of Wong Bun, a Chinese, charged with having opium in possession, Attorney R. W. Breckons expects to enter a protest in federal court next Wednesday morning against the drawing by Clerk George R. Clark of trial jurors for the April, 1916, term. The grand jurors are also scheduled to be selected on that day.

It was expected that the talemens would be selected yesterday morning, and Attorney Breckons was on hand to enter his objections. The drawing was postponed, however, and Mr. Breckons was not heard.

According to statements made by him today, Mr. Breckons has two grounds upon which he will base his objections. The first is that there now is no federal court here, for the reason that but one judge is in office, the statute providing that the court consist of two judges.

The second ground is that the law requires that the trial jurors be drawn by the person who is clerk and that, if they are drawn by Clerk they will not be drawn by the clerk. Clark was appointed by Judge C. F. Clemons to succeed Foster L. Davis after the latter had been removed.

Attorney Breckons further contends that Judge Clemons had no right to remove Davis for the reason, he declares, that the power of appointment of a clerk is vested in two judges, and that the power of dismissal must come from the power of appointment.

"And if I had a client who was bound over to the federal grand jury," says Attorney Breckons, "I would object to the drawing of the grand jurors."

PLAN GREETING AND FAREWELL FOR CONSULS

Arita will turn over his post to the new appointee and Consul and Mrs. Arita will then return to Japan on the first steamer.

No arrangements have been made as yet regarding a reception for the new consul-general, but it is expected that local Japanese will arrange this after Mr. Morol's arrival. Consul and Mrs. Arita have made many friends during their stay here and local Japanese are already arranging preliminary plans for a farewell reception.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—SYDNEY JORDAN, Hawaii Tours Company: The advertising of Hawaii done last winter by the Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company will result in many persons coming here this summer, I believe, who would not otherwise have visited the islands.

—FRED L. WALDRON: Probably 20 or more tourists have told me that they would have stayed here a month longer had the Great Northern remained on the Honolulu run. This is only one instance of the money this town is losing by the liner's withdrawal.

—DR. F. E. TROTTER: The Matson Navigation Company is turning its boats into submarines. The Lurline went out here loaded to the hatches and the Wilhelmina had so much cargo she almost needed a periscope. I don't see how the company is going to take care of all the freight which has been forced upon it.

—L. W. DE VISONNORT: The bookings for my personally conducted trip to the volcano tomorrow are so satisfactory that I shall repeat the experiment next week and run a second trip, leaving here on Saturday, April 1. I am glad people seem to realize that the Big Island is trying to make these trips of great interest, and it is good to see so many names of Honoluluans on the passenger list. Though there are quite a number of exceptions, of course, the average chauffeur over there does not take very much interest in his land, and does not trouble to make the journey interesting to visitors. I hear the weather is first-rate up there just now and I think we shall have a dandy trip tomorrow. According to the reports the volcano is in one of its most spectacular moods, so everything is bully.
